Hi Kate,

I for got to mention (and I think this is really important).

In the UK there are special vets for people on benefits and places like the PDSA who offer neutering and spaying for pets at greatly reduced rates.

There are a lot of 'poorer' people who for financial reasons (and lack of education on the subject) do not neuter and this causes the amount of unwanted pets.

Also farmers are generally very bad at neutering cats and dogs (the Cooil farm in Bradda for example - 50 cats put down as they all had feline AIDS) as they are 'professional animal keepers they should be made to do so.

Could an Island vet offer this service? maybe one day per month? subsidised by the MSPCA/Pets at home? If people knew it was easy and affordable to neuter their pets that in itself would prevent a lot of problems.

Ultimately if organised correctly, this too could be a money spinner.

Sarah
