UNEMPLOYMENT.

In view of the increased number of unemployed men on the register of unemployed, and of the desirability of every effort being put forward to reduce that number, so far as is possible, the Lieutenant Governor appeals to all companies, business men, and private persons who are contemplating executing work, such as repairs or decorations, in the early spring, to carry out such work during the winter months if possible, and thus assist in the general relief of unemployment.

By Order,

B. E. SARGAUNT,

Government Secretary.

Government Office,
Isle of Man,
8th December, 1930.
