

G.O. Refce. 17961/4.

G.

R.

The Maintenance Orders (Facilities for Enforcement) Act, 1921.

Application of Act to New Zealand.

HIS EXCELLENCY THE LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR has, under the powers afforded by the above-mentioned Act, made an Order, dated the 8th day of January, 1931, a copy of which is appended, applying the Maintenance Orders (Facilities for Enforcement) Act, 1921, to New Zealand.

By Order,

B. E. SARGEAUNT,

Government Secretary.

Government Office,
Isle of Man,
8th January, 1931.

ISLE OF MAN TO WIT.

By His Excellency Sir Claude Hamilton Archer Hill, K.C.S.I.,
C.I.E., Lieutenant-Governor of the said Isle, etc., etc.

WHEREAS it is enacted by Section 11 of the Maintenance Orders (Facilities for Enforcement) Act, 1921, that where the Governor is satisfied that reciprocal provisions have been made by the Legislature of any part of His Majesty's Dominions or British Protectorate outside the Isle of Man for the enforcement within that part of Maintenance Orders made by Courts within the Isle of Man, the Governor may by Order extend such Act to such part of His Majesty's Dominions or British Protectorate.

AND WHEREAS reciprocal provisions have been made by the Government of New Zealand for the enforcement within such Dominion of Maintenance Orders made by Courts within the Isle of Man.

NOW I, the Lieutenant-Governor of the Isle of Man, under the powers in me vested under the Maintenance Orders (Facilities for Enforcement) Act, 1921, DO HEREBY ORDER that such Act shall extend to New Zealand.

GIVEN at Government House, Isle of Man, this 8th day of January, 1931.

CLAUDE H. HILL,
Lieutenant-Governor.

In the early part of the century, the population was small and the land was fertile. The people lived in simple huts and raised a few animals for food. They were happy and content with their life. But as time went on, the population grew and the land became scarce. The people started to fight over the land and the resources. They became greedy and selfish. The simple life turned into a struggle for survival. The people who once lived in peace and harmony now lived in fear and hatred. The land that was once so fertile became a wasteland. The people who once raised animals for food now starved. The simple huts that were once built with their own hands were now built with stolen goods. The people who once lived in peace and harmony now lived in a state of constant war.

CHAPTER 2

The people who once lived in peace and harmony now lived in a state of constant war. The land that was once so fertile became a wasteland. The people who once raised animals for food now starved. The simple huts that were once built with their own hands were now built with stolen goods. The people who once lived in peace and harmony now lived in a state of constant war. The land that was once so fertile became a wasteland. The people who once raised animals for food now starved. The simple huts that were once built with their own hands were now built with stolen goods. The people who once lived in peace and harmony now lived in a state of constant war. The land that was once so fertile became a wasteland. The people who once raised animals for food now starved. The simple huts that were once built with their own hands were now built with stolen goods. The people who once lived in peace and harmony now lived in a state of constant war. The land that was once so fertile became a wasteland. The people who once raised animals for food now starved. The simple huts that were once built with their own hands were now built with stolen goods.

The people who once lived in peace and harmony now lived in a state of constant war. The land that was once so fertile became a wasteland. The people who once raised animals for food now starved. The simple huts that were once built with their own hands were now built with stolen goods. The people who once lived in peace and harmony now lived in a state of constant war. The land that was once so fertile became a wasteland. The people who once raised animals for food now starved. The simple huts that were once built with their own hands were now built with stolen goods.