EXPLANATORY NOTE.

(This Note is not part of the Regulations.)

These regulations prescribe the rate of and conditions for entitlement to retirement pension for persons over pensionable age on 5th July 1948 and provide benefit for their widows and former wives.

The weekly rate of benefit is to be £3 except for married women for whom it will be £1 17s.

In order to be entitled to benefit a person must generally satisfy conditions, other than contribution conditions, similar to those which apply to the corresponding benefit under the National Insurance (Isle of Man) Act 1948 ; in addition there are certain conditions as to residence in the Isle of Man.

The regulations also make provision as to claims for and payment of the benefits, and for adjustment in cases where the beneficiary is also entitled to certain other benefits, and make other provisions which are of a minor and consequential nature.
