THE NATIONAL INSURANCE (ISLE OF MAN) ORDER 1971

---

The National Insurance (Isle of Man) Order 1971 made on 16th July 1971 by the Lieutenant Governor under the powers conferred on him by subsection (1) of section 1 of the Old Age Pensions, Family Allowances and National Insurance (Isle of Man) Act 1956 and subsection (3) of section 1 of the National Insurance Order 1969 and approved by resolution of Tynwald on 20th July 1971.

Explanatory Memorandum

1. The Old Age Pensions, Family Allowances and National Insurance (Isle of Man) Act 1956 empowers the Governor, by order, to amend, vary or repeal any of the provisions of the enactments named in the Schedule to that Act (including the Family Allowances Acts, the National Insurance (Isle of Man) Acts and the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries (Isle of Man) Acts) in such manner as appears to him expedient for the purpose of making such enactments correspond (subject to such modifications or adaptations as he may consider appropriate) with the like enactments on similar subject matters from time to time operating in Great Britain. Any of the provisions of such an order may be made retrospective and shall take effect on such day or days as may be specified in the order, not being earlier than the date from which the corresponding enactments have effect in Great Britain. Any such order must be laid before Tynwald as soon as may be after it is made and does not take effect until approved by resolution of Tynwald. When such an order has been approved by resolution of Tynwald it takes effect as if it were an Act of Tynwald.

2. Corresponding British legislation. Apart from section 14, the provisions of this Order correspond to those enacted in Great Britain by the National Insurance Act 1971. Section 14 appoints the day for the provisions of section 3(1) of the National Insurance Order 1966 as amended by section 1(1) of the National Insurance Order 1969 to come into force.

3. Flat-rate National Insurance contributions. Section 1(1) of and Schedule 1 to this Order prescribe new rates of weekly flat-rate national insurance contributions. In the case of an employed person, the employee's portion is reduced by one new penny and the employer's portion (except in the case of a girl under 18) is also reduced by one new penny. These reductions in flat-rate national insurance contributions off-set increases in industrial injuries contributions (see paragraph 13).

A self-employed person's weekly contribution is increased by 26 new pence in the case of a man and 22 new pence in the case of a woman.

A non-employed person's contribution is increased by 21 new pence in the case of a man and 16 new pence in the case of a woman.

4. Graduated contributions. Section 1(3) of and Schedule 2 to this Order prescribe the rates of graduated weekly contributions. For persons earning up to £18 a week, the amount of graduated contributions remain unaltered. Graduated contribution rates are increased in respect of persons earning more than £18 a week and the upper limit of weekly earnings for graduated contribution purposes is raised from £30 to £42. The new rates and the amounts of the increases are as follows:—

Weekly Remuneration		Not contracted out		Contracted out
exceeding	but not exceeding	New rate	Increase	New rate	Increase
£	£	£	£	£	£
18	22	1.04	0.04	0.30	0.04
22	26	1.40	0.06	0.66	0.06
26	30	1.74	0.14	1.00	0.14
30	34	2.10	0.50	1.34	0.48
34	38	2.44	0.84	1.70	0.84
38	41	2.80	1.20	2.04	1.18
41	—	2.94	1.34	2.16	1.30

An employer is entitled to deduct one-half of the amount of a graduated contribution from the insured person's earnings.

5. Exception from liability for and crediting of contributions. Section 1(5) raises, from £312 a year to £468 a year, the level of income below which a self-employed person or a non-employed person may on application be excepted from liability to pay contributions.

6. National Insurance benefits. Section 2(1) of and Schedule 3 to this Order prescribe revised rates of benefits. The standard rate of personal benefit is increased from £5 to £6. The main rates of national insurance benefits under this Order are compared with existing rates in the following table—

* The present chronic sick will become invalidity pensioners.

** Family allowances are payable in addition for these children.

7. Earnings rule for Retirement Pensioners less than five years over minimum pension age. Section 2(2) of this Order increases the amount of weekly earnings above which adjustments of retirement pensions begin in the case of persons less than five years over minimum pension age from £7.50 to £9.50.

8. Increments for deferred retirement. Section 2(3) of this Order increases the amount of the increment in retirement pension which an insured person can earn through deferring retirement after minimum pension age. The rate will be increased from 5p to 6p a week for every nine flat-rate contributions paid after minimum pension age. The increment rate for his wife or widow will be increased from 2½p to 3p.

9. Invalidity Pension and Invalidity Allowance and improvements for dependants of Invalidity and Retirement Pensioners. Sections 3 and 4 of this Order introduce a new long-term benefit for everyone who has been incapable of work and continuously on sickness benefit for six months or more. The main features of the benefit are as follows. After six months on sickness benefit, those concerned, provided they have paid not less than 156 Class 1 or Class 2 contributions, will have that benefit turned into an invalidity pension which will be at the full single rate of standard national insurance benefit (£6). Section 3 also provides that for those invalidity pensioners who fall sick more than five years before the minimum pension age (that is men who fall sick before they are 60 and women who fall sick before they are 55) there shall be added to their invalidity pension a new allowance called an invalidity allowance. The amount of this allowance is related to the age at which the incapacity for work of the person concerned began—the earlier in his working life a person becomes chronically sick the more will be the amount of the invalidity allowance which he will receive—on the basis that he will not have had the same opportunity to acquire other resources as someone who becomes chronically sick later in life. The maximum rate of the new allowance (£1 a week) is payable to people whose incapacity for work begins before the age of 35. The next rate (60p) is payable where the onset of incapacity falls between the ages of 35 and 45 and the lowest rate (30p) is payable where the onset of illness begins between the ages of 45 and 60 in the case of men and 45 and 55 in the case of women. The pension and allowance together make up invalidity benefit. Not only those satisfying the conditions in future, but also all those within the qualifying age limits and not over 65 in the case of men and 60 in the case of women who are already chronically sick and who have been on sickness benefit for a prolonged period will qualify for the invalidity pension and for the invalidity allowance. They will normally qualify for the allowance according to the age at which they became ill in their individual case but regulations will provide for exceptional cases. Where illness has been continuous since before the start of the National Insurance scheme (on 5th July 1948) they will become eligible for the maximum (£1) rate of the allowance irrespective of their actual age at the time. Once awarded, invalidity allowance will be, for the continuously sick, a life-long benefit at the same rate and those reaching retirement age and going on to retirement pension will normally carry it with them for the rest of their lives as an addition to the amount of their retirement pension.

Section 4 provides that invalidity pensioners' wives who are working shall have applied to the increase of benefit payable in respect of them the same earnings rule as applies to retirement pensioners instead of the existing rule whereby the increase is not payable if the wife's earnings exceed £3.10.

10. Beneficiary's dependent children. A distinction is made between the amounts paid for children of long-term and those paid for the children of short-term national insurance beneficiaries. The children of widows have for a number of years been treated as a special category. The children of both invalidity pensioners and of retirement pensioners are now put into the same special category. The effect of Part II of Schedule 3 to this Order is that, apart from family allowances, the short-term sickness beneficiary will get £1.85 for his first dependent child, £0.95 for a second child and £0.85 for a third and each subsequent child — the corresponding figures for the invalidity pensioner will be £2.95, £2.05 and £1.95 a week. When family allowances are taken into account, the total for each child is £1.85 in the case of a short-term beneficiary and £2.95 in the case of an invalidity pensioner.

11. Retirement Pensions for persons over eighty. Section 5(1) of this Order carries further the special provision introduced by the National Insurance (Old persons and widows pensions and attendance allowance) (Isle of Man) Order 1970 of non-contributory pensions for very elderly persons. The Order of 1970 provided pensions for persons without insurance under the pre-1948 schemes who could not be insured under the national insurance scheme because they were over pensionable age when the scheme started in July 1948—that is men over 87 and women over 82 on 5th July 1970. Provision was also made for pensions to be paid to younger wives and certain widows and former wives of men who satisfied the age condition. Section 5(1) provides from September 1971 a retirement pension, as a personal benefit only, for all the over-eighties, actual and potential, who have no pension or a pension at a lower rate than that which is provided for persons over 80. The persons who will benefit are late-age entrants, that is people within ten years of pension age in 1948 who did not accept the offer of a standard pension on special contribution terms and people who for any reason have not paid enough contributions. The weekly rate is £3.60 with a lower rate of £2.20 for a married woman. This is in line with the increased rate of pension which will be paid from September 1971 to persons who became entitled to a retirement pension under the Order of 1970. The conditions of entitlement to be laid down in regulations will include a residence test in order to establish that the claimant has a substantial link with the community. It is intended that the test will be that the claimant is ordinarily resident in the Isle of Man on the date of the claim and has had a total of 10 years' residence in the Isle of Man and the United Kingdom in the 20 years ending in September 1971 or on his 80th birthday if later.

12. Age Addition to Retirement Pension when the pensioner reaches age 80. Section 5(2) of this Order introduces a new benefit to be paid to individuals when they reach age 80 of 25 new pence a week in addition to their retirement pension. Thus, with a full standard pension, a single pensioner will get £6.25 and a married couple will get £9.95 if one is over 80 and £10.20 if both are over 80. Everyone entitled to a retirement pension will be entitled to the age addition at the age of 80 irrespective as to whether the retirement pension is a contributory or a non-contributory one. Regulations will specify the conditions under which persons receiving industrial injuries pensions are to receive the age addition at age 80.

13. Calculation of Earnings-related Supplement and Widow's Supplementary Allowance. Subsections (1) and (3) of section 6 of this Order alter the formulae for calculating the weekly rate of—

- (a) earnings-related supplement to unemployment and sickness benefit;
- (b) earnings-related supplement payable with injury benefit; and
- (c) widow's supplementary benefit.

The band of earnings taken into account is between £10 and £42 instead of between £9 and £30. The supplement will be an amount equal to the aggregate of—

- (i) one-third of the amount up to £20 (instead of £21) by which the average earnings of the claimant (or the claimant's late husband in the case of a widow claimant) for the relevant income tax year exceeded £10 (instead of £9) and
- (ii) 15% of the amount up to £12 by which those average weekly earnings exceeded £30 (new provision in consequence of expansion of the earnings' band).

Where earnings-related supplement is paid with injury benefit the supplement will be limited to an amount which, when added to injury benefit, does not bring the total benefit above 85% of the claimant's gross weekly earnings in the relevant tax year. At present, it is the rate of unemployment or sickness benefit which would be payable if there were no title to injury benefit, and not the actual rate of injury benefit, which is taken into account in applying this ceiling

14. Contributions under the Industrial Injuries Act. Section 7 of and Schedule 4 to this Order increase all industrial injuries insurance contributions by one new penny. The new weekly rates will be as follows—

	By the insured person	By the employer
Men over 18 .....	0.05	0.06
Women over 18 .....	0.04	0.05
Boys under 18 .....	0.03	0.03
Girls under 18 .....	0.02	0.03

15. Industrial Injuries insurance benefits. Section 8(1) of and Schedule 5 to this Order prescribe revised rates of industrial injuries benefits. Single rates of injury benefit and disablement pension for persons under 18 replace separate rates for persons under 17 and for those between 17 and 18. The rates of the main industrial injuries benefits under this Order are compared with existing rates in the following table—

	Existing rate £	Rate prescribed by this Order £
Injury benefit .....	7.75	8.75*
Disablement benefit (100% assessment) .....	8.40	10.00‡
Unemployability supplement	5.00	6.00
Special hardship allowance (maximum) .....	3.35	4.00
Constant attendance allowance (normal maximum) .....	3.30	4.00
Exceptionally severe disablement allowance .....	3.00	4.00
Industrial death benefit—widow's pension during first 26 weeks of widowhood .....	7.00	8.40
widow's pension now payable at £5.55 rate .....	5.55	6.55
widow's pension now payable at £1.50 rate .....	1.50	1.80
allowance for first or only child of widow .....	2.45	2.95
allowance for second child of widow .....	1.55	2.05
allowance for widow's other children .....	1.45	1.95
widower's pension .....	5.55	6.55
Increases for dependants (where payable)— wife or other adult dependant	3.10	3.70
first or only child .....	1.55	1.85
second child .....	0.65	0.95
any other child .....	0.55	0.85

* Increases are also made in the juvenile rates.

‡ Rates for lower assessments are increased proportionately. For assessments below 20% for which a gratuity is normally payable, the maximum gratuity is raised from £550 to £660.

** Invalidity allowances and the higher rate of children's allowances are payable as to invalidity pensioners (see table in paragraph 6).

16. Industrial Death Benefit. Section 8(2) of this Order enables industrial death benefit to be paid where the deceased was entitled to constant attendance allowance at the normal maximum rate, or a higher rate for exceptionally severe disablement, at the time of his death even though death was not due to his industrial injury. This change will benefit a widow if her late husband was a severely disabled man.

17. Application of improvements corresponding to those for the chronic sick to Unemployability Supplement under the Industrial Injuries Act. Sections 8(3) and 9 of this Order improve unemployability supplement provisions by adopting the same principles as have been applied in relation to sickness benefit — where a standard rate has been replaced for the chronic sick by invalidity benefits. Section 8(3) of this Order provides that the increase of benefit for a wife of a pensioner with unemployability supplement shall be subject to the same sliding scale earnings rule as is applied in invalidity pension cases instead of the present rule where title is lost completely if her earnings exceed the amount of the increase.

The increase of unemployability supplement under section 9 corresponds to the provisions for the new invalidity allowance. Schedule 5 to this Order increases payments for dependent children to the same amounts as for children of invalidity or retirement pensioners. The special rate of unemployability supplement for those under 18 is abolished.

18. Adjustment of Industrial Injuries benefit paid to hospital patients. Section 10 of this Order enables regulations to be made providing for the adjustment or suspension of industrial injuries benefits payable to or for those in hospital on the same basis as now applies under the National Insurance Act.

19. Polygamous marriages. Section 11 of this Order empowers the Isle of Man Board of Social Security to make regulations for any purpose of the Insurance Act, the Industrial Injuries Act or the Family Allowances (Isle of Man) Act 1946 relating to polygamous marriages.

20. Other matters included in this Order.

(1) Section 8(4) of this Order increases from £1.50 to £1.80 the weekly rate of pension payable to a widow under the Industrial Injuries Act when none of the higher rates in Schedule 4 of this Order apply to her.

(2) Section 12 provides for certain minor and consequential amendments (set out in Schedule 6 to this Order) to the National Insurance Act, the Industrial Injuries Act and the Isle of Man Board of Social Security Act 1970.

(3) Section 13 prescribes the appointed day under section 3 (1) of the National Insurance Order 1966 (days not treated as days of unemployment in cases where employment is suspended), as amended by section 1 (1) of the National Insurance Order 1969, so far as the said section 3(1) operates for the purpose of any provision of the Insurance Act relating to unemployment benefit or to a day or period of interruption of employment, as 1st January 1972.

(4) Section 14 provides for interpretation and section 15 contains the short title and provides for the commencement of the provisions of this Order, transitory matters (Schedule 7) and repeals (Schedule 8).

21. Financial provisions. It is estimated that the financial changes made by this Order will be as follows — and the like substitution as is specified in paragraph (a) above shall be made in any regulations made under the said subsection (1) (a) (iii) which are in force at the making of this Order.

Revision of benefits under Insurance Act.

2. (1) For the provisions of Part I of the Second Schedule to the Insurance Acts (rates of benefit) (in place of the provisions set out in Schedule 3 to the Family Allowances, National Insurance, Industrial Injuries and National Health Service Contributions (Decimalisation of the Currency) Order 1970) there shall be substituted the provisions set out in Schedule 3 to this Order (being provisions giving effect to increases in the rates of benefit and to the following provisions of this Order).

(2) For section 19(5) of the Insurance Act there shall be substituted—

“(5) Subject to any regulations under section 4 of the Family Allowances and National Insurance Order 1964, where the earnings of a beneficiary who is less than five years over pensionable age have exceeded £9.50 for the calendar week ending last before any week for which he is entitled to a retirement pension, the weekly rate of his pension shall for the last-mentioned week be reduced—

- (a) where the excess is less than £2.00, by 5 new pence for each complete 10 new pence of the excess, and

- (b) where the excess is not less than £2.00, by 5 new pence for each complete 10 new pence of the excess up to £2.00 and by 5 new pence for each complete 5 new pence of any further excess :

Provided that this subsection shall not affect the rate of the pension for the first week after the date of the beneficiary's retirement."

(3) In section 19(4) of the Insurance Act (increase of 5 new pence in a person's retirement pension in respect of every nine contributions paid by him after attaining pensionable age) for the words "by 5 new pence" there shall be substituted the words "by 6 new pence," and in paragraphs (a) and (b) of section 4(1) of the Family Allowances and National Insurance Order 1962 (retirement pension of the wife or widow of such a person to be increased by 2½ new pence for every nine contributions) for the words "2½ new pence," in each place where they occur, there shall be substituted the words "3 new pence".

3. (1) Subject to the following provisions of this section where, in respect of any period of interruption of employment, a person has been entitled to sickness benefit for 168 days, then—

Invalidity benefit for chronic sick.

- (a) he shall cease to be entitled to that benefit for any subsequent day of incapacity for work falling within that period; and
- (b) unless he is over pensionable age and has retired from regular employment he shall become entitled to an invalidity pension for any day of incapacity for work in that period for which, by virtue of paragraph (a) above, he is not entitled to sickness benefit;

and any day in the first three days of a period of interruption of employment which was a day of incapacity for work but for which the person concerned was not entitled to sickness benefit shall be treated for the purposes of this subsection as a day on which he was so entitled.

(2) Subsection (1) above shall not apply in relation to any day of incapacity for work (beginning after the expiry of the 168 days referred to in that subsection) if the person concerned has paid, in respect of the period between his entry into insurance and that day, less than 156 contributions of the appropriate class, and accordingly, subject to the provisions of the Insurance Act, that person shall continue to be entitled to sickness benefit for that day.

(3) Subject to subsection (4) below, invalidity pension shall be payable at the weekly rate specified in relation thereto in Part I of the Second Schedule to the Insurance Act.

(4) If a person claiming invalidity pension for any day—

- (a) is over pensionable age but has not retired from regular employment; and
- (b) would on that day be entitled to a retirement pension if he had retired from regular employment on attaining pensionable age and made the necessary claim, the invalidity pension shall be payable at the weekly rate at which, disregarding any increase by virtue of any provision of the Insurance Act (but having regard to subsection (6) below), the retirement pension would have been payable.

(5) If a person is more than five years below pensionable age on the qualifying date in any period of interruption of employment then, in respect of every day of that period in respect of which he is entitled to an invalidity pension, he shall also be entitled to an invalidity allowance at the weekly rate specified in relation thereto in Part I of the Second Schedule to the Insurance Act; and for the purposes of invalidity allowance, “the qualifying date,” in relation to a period of interruption of employment, means the first day in that period (whether before the making of this Order or later) which is a day of incapacity for work or such earlier day as may be prescribed.

(6) Subject to subsection (7) below, if a person is entitled to invalidity allowance in respect of—

- (a) any day falling within the period of 13 weeks ending immediately before the day on which he attains pensionable age, or

(b) the last day before the beginning of that period, the weekly rate of the retirement pension payable to him shall be increased by an amount equal to the weekly rate of the invalidity allowance to which he was entitled on that day.

(7) Subsection (6) above shall not apply to the retirement pension payable to a woman by virtue of her husband's insurance except in a case where, apart from an election under section 20 of the Insurance Act, she would have been entitled to a retirement pension by virtue of her own insurance.

(8) In a case where section 25 of the Insurance Act applies (rate of unemployment and sickness benefit for persons over pensionable age limited to amount of potential retirement pension) an increase in a retirement pension by virtue of subsection (6) above (unlike increases by virtue of other provisions) shall be taken into account for the purpose of determining the weekly rate of sickness benefit.

(9) The amount payable by way of benefit under this section for any day of incapacity for work shall be one-sixth of the appropriate weekly rate.

4. After section 23 of the Insurance Act there shall be inserted the following section:—

The National Insurance (Isle of Man) Order 1971 [19 & 20 ELIZ. II]

(2) Subject to subsection (3) below, where the beneficiary is residing with his wife, and the earnings of his wife for the calendar week ending last before any week for which he is entitled to benefit under this section exceeded £9.50 the weekly rate of benefit under this section shall for the last mentioned week be reduced—

(3) If regulations under section 4 of the Family Allowances and National Insurance Order 1964 make any alteration, or further alteration in section 19(5) of this Act (which provides for a reduction in respect of earnings comparable to the reduction under subsection (2) above), those regulations shall make a corresponding alteration, or further alteration, in the reduction to be made under subsection (2) above.

(4) Subject to the following provisions of this section, the weekly rate of a retirement pension or invalidity pension shall be increased by the amount specified as aforesaid for any period during which some female person (not being a child) has the care of a child or children of the beneficiary's family, or of a child or children treated as such for the purposes of section 22 of this Act.

(5) Subsection (4) above shall not apply if the beneficiary—

- (a) is a man whose wife is entitled to a retirement pension by virtue of his insurance, or
- (b) is a woman entitled to the pension by virtue of her husband's insurance, or in such other cases as may be prescribed.

(6) Regulations may, in a case within subsection (4)

(7) Subject to subsection (8) below, the weekly rate of invalidity pension shall be increased by the amount specified as aforesaid—

In this subsection the expression "relative" does not include any person who is a child, but includes a person who is a relative by marriage or adoption and a person who would have been a relative if some person born illegitimate had been born legitimate.

(8) Where a person is entitled to invalidity pension at a weekly rate determined under section 3(4) of the National Insurance (Isle of Man) Order 1971—

- (a) subsection (7) above shall not apply, and
- (b) if the beneficiary would have been entitled only by virtue of section 24 of this Act to the retirement pension by reference to which the weekly rate of the invalidity pension is determined, the amount of any increase under this section of that weekly rate shall be that which would have been applicable by virtue of the said section 24 in the case of such an increase of the weekly rate of that pension.

(9) A beneficiary shall not be entitled for the same period to an increase of benefit under this section in respect of more than one person.

(10) So far as this section relates to the amount of the increase of a retirement pension, it shall have effect subject to subsection (5) of section 19 of this Act, and any reduction to be made under that subsection shall be made, so far as necessary—

- (a) first against the amount of the benefit set out in Part I of the Second Schedule to this Act plus any increase under section 19(4) of this Act,

- (b) he is entitled to a retirement pension by virtue of some provision of the Insurance Act but the pension is payable at a weekly rate which, disregarding any increase under Part II of the Second Schedule to that Act, is less than that specified in Part I of that Schedule in relation to a retirement pension payable by virtue of the Order of 1970.

(2) A person who is over the age of eighty and who—

- (a) is entitled to a retirement pension, or
- (b) is not so entitled but fulfils such other conditions as may be prescribed, shall be entitled to a further benefit, known as age addition, payable for life at the weekly rate specified in relation thereto in Part I of the Second Schedule to the Insurance Act.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in section 27 of the Insurance Act (right to benefit conditional on the making of a claim) in such cases as may be prescribed age addition or a retirement pension payable by virtue of this section may be paid without a claim being made for it.

(4) Except for the purposes of section 9 of the Insurance Act (descriptions of benefit) references in Part II of that Act to a retirement pension (but not references to a benefit) do not include a retirement pension payable by virtue of this section.

6. (1) In the application of subsection (4) of section 2 of the National Insurance Order 1966 (calculation of weekly rate of earnings-related supplement) in respect of any day in a period of interruption of a person's employment in relation to which the relevant income tax year (as defined in that section) is the year 1972-73 or a subsequent year for paragraph (a) of that subsection there shall be substituted the following paragraph—

“(7A) Where, in the case of a person entitled to earnings-related supplement in respect of any day, a payment by way of unemployment benefit or sickness benefit does not, but a payment by way of injury benefit under section 10 of the Industrial Injuries Act does, fall to be made to that person in respect of that day, paragraph (b) of subsection (4) of this section shall have effect in his case with the substitution—

(b) he would have been so entitled but for having received medical or other treatment as an in-patient in a hospital or similar institution, he shall be regarded for the purposes of entitlement to death benefit as having died as a result of the injury in respect of which the disablement pension was payable.

The reference in this subsection to an increase under section 14 of this Act shall not be read as including a reference to any payment which is not by way of an increase of a disablement pension, and in particular does not include a reference to any payment for constant attendance under section 77(2) of this Act.”

(3) In section 17 of the Industrial Injuries Act (increase of benefit in respect of adult dependants) after subsection (3) (power by regulations to withdraw increase of benefit where earnings of the wife or husband exceed the prescribed amount) there shall be inserted—

“(3A) Where the beneficiary is entitled to an unemployment supplement (to a disablement pension) and is residing with his wife, and the earnings of his wife for the calendar week ending last before any week for which he is entitled to benefit under this section exceeded £9.50, the weekly rate of benefit under this section shall for the last-mentioned week be reduced—

Provided that if regulations under section 4 of the Family Allowances and National Insurance Order 1964 make any alteration or further alteration in section 19(5) of the Insurance Act, those regulations shall make a corresponding alteration in the reduction to be made under this subsection.

(3B) Regulations under subsection (3) above—

- (b) may, in a case within subsection (1) (d) above in which the female person is residing with a beneficiary entitled to unemployability supplement, and fulfils such further conditions as may be prescribed, authorise an increase of benefit under this section, but subject to a reduction in respect of the female person's earnings, other than such of her earnings from employment by the beneficiary as may be prescribed, comparable to the reduction in subsection (3A) above,
- (c) may, in connection with any reduction of benefit in respect of earnings, prescribe the method of calculating or estimating the earnings."

(4) In section 18(3) of the Industrial Injuries Act for the words "£1.50" (which is the weekly rate of pension payable to a widow when none of the higher rates in Schedule 4 to the National Insurance Order 1965 applies) there shall be substituted "£1.80".

subsection (2) above, the qualifying date means the first day in that period which is a day of incapacity for work, or such earlier day as may be prescribed.

(4) Subject to subsection (3) above, if there have been two or more periods for which the beneficiary was entitled to unemployability supplement, the qualifying date shall be in relation to unemployability supplement for a day in any one of those periods, the beginning of the first week of that period.

For the purposes of this subsection a break of more than 13 weeks in entitlement to unemployability supplement means that the periods before and after the break are different periods and a break of 13 weeks or less shall be disregarded.

(5) in this section 'period of interruption of employment' has the same meaning as it has for the purposes
